

KEN PAXTON
ATTORNEY GENERAL OF TEXAS

September 7, 2016

Ms. Marie N. Rovira
Counsel for the Dallas Police and Fire Pension System
Messer, Rockefeller & Fort, PLLC
6351 Preston Road, Suite 350
Frisco, Texas 75034

OR2016-20208

Dear Ms. Rovira:

You ask whether certain information is subject to required public disclosure under the Public Information Act (the "Act"), chapter 552 of the Government Code. Your request was assigned ID# 625439.

The Dallas Police and Fire Pension System (the "system"), which you represent, received multiple requests from the same requestor for the following information during specified time periods: agreements, contracts, and engagement agreement letters by and between the system and specified third parties; invoices received by the system from specified third parties; detailed billings received by the system from specified third parties; all open records requests received by the system; all open records requests referred to the Office of the Attorney General; all open records requests received from the Dallas Morning News; and all invoices or billings from specified third parties paid by the system. You claim the submitted information is excepted from disclosure under sections 552.101, 552.103, 552.107, and 552.143 of the Government Code and privileged under rule 503 of the Texas Rules of Evidence and rule 192.5 of the Texas Rule of Civil Procedure. We have considered the submitted arguments and reviewed the submitted information. We have also received and considered comments from the requestor. See Gov't Code § 552.304 (permitting interested third party to submit to attorney general reasons why requested information should or should not be released).

Initially, we note some of the submitted information is subject to section 552.022 of the Government Code. Section 552.022(a) provides, in relevant part:

(a) [T]he following categories of information are public information and not excepted from required disclosure unless made confidential under this chapter or other law:

(3) information in an account, voucher, or contract relating to the receipt or expenditure of public or other funds by a governmental body; [and]

(16) information that is in a bill for attorney's fees and that is not privileged under the attorney-client privilege[.]

Id. § 552.022(a)(3), (16). The submitted information contains information in an account, contract, or voucher relating to the receipt or expenditure of funds by the system that is subject to section 552.022(a)(3) and attorney fee bills that are subject to section 552.022(a)(16). This information must be released unless it is made confidential under the Act or other law. See id. § 552.022(a)(3), (16). Although you seek to withhold some of the information subject to section 552.022 under sections 552.103 and 552.107 of the Government Code, these exceptions are discretionary and do not make information confidential under the Act. See Dallas Area Rapid Transit v. Dallas Morning News, 4 S.W.3d 469, 475-76 (Tex. App.—Dallas 1999, no pet.) (governmental body may waive Gov't Code § 552.103); see also Open Records Decision Nos. 676 at 10-11 (attorney-client privilege under Gov't Code § 552.107(1) may be waived), 665 at 2 n.5 (2000) (discretionary exceptions generally). Therefore, the information subject to section 552.022 may not be withheld under section 552.103 or section 552.107 of the Government Code. However, the Texas Supreme Court has held the Texas Rules of Evidence and Texas Rules of Civil Procedure are "other law" that makes information expressly confidential for purposes of section 552.022. See In re City of Georgetown, 53 S.W.3d 328, 336 (Tex. 2001). Therefore, we will address the system's claims of the attorney-client privilege and the attorney-work product privilege under Texas Rule of Evidence 503 and Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 192.5. We note sections 552.101 and 552.143 can make information confidential under the Act. Accordingly, we will consider your arguments under sections 552.101 and 552.143 for the information subject to section 552.022, as well as the remaining information. We will also consider your arguments for the submitted information not subject to section 552.022.

The system contends the submitted information should be withheld under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with a settlement agreement. The system states the terms of the settlement agreement stipulate that a named party to the settlement agreement "will not call upon or contact the [system,] its [t]rustees or employees." Section 552.101 excepts from disclosure "information considered to be confidential by law, either constitutional, statutory, or by judicial decision." Gov't Code § 552.101. However, the system has not pointed to any statutory confidentiality provision, nor are we aware of any, that would make any of the information at issue confidential for purposes of section 552.101. See, e.g., Open Records Decision Nos. 611 at 1 (1992) (common-law privacy), 600 at 4 (1992) (constitutional privacy), 478 at 2 (1987) (statutory confidentiality). Therefore, the system may not withhold the information at issue under section 552.101 of the Government Code. Further, we note information is not confidential under the Act simply because the parties anticipate or request that it be kept confidential. See Indus. Found. v. Tex. Indus. Accident Bd., 540 S.W.2d 668, 677 (Tex. 1976). In other words, a governmental body cannot, through an agreement or contract, overrule or repeal provisions of the Act. See Attorney General Opinion JM-672 (1987); Open Records Decision Nos. 541 at 3 (1990) ("[T]he obligations of a governmental body under [the predecessor to the Act] cannot be compromised simply by its decision to enter into a contract."), 203 at 1 (1978) (mere expectation of confidentiality by person supplying information does not satisfy requirements of statutory predecessor to section 552.110 Government Code). Consequently, unless the submitted information comes within an exception to disclosure, it must be released, notwithstanding any expectation or agreement to the contrary.

Texas Rule of Evidence 503 enacts the attorney-client privilege. Rule 503(b)(1) provides:

A client has a privilege to refuse to disclose and to prevent any other person from disclosing confidential communications made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client:

(A) between the client or the client's representative and the client's lawyer or the lawyer's representative;

(B) between the client's lawyer and the lawyer's representative;

(C) by the client, the client's representative, the client's lawyer, or the lawyer's representative to a lawyer representing another party in a pending action or that lawyer's representative, if the communications concern a matter of common interest in the pending action;

(D) between the client's representatives or between the client and the client's representative; or

(E) among lawyers and their representatives representing the same client.

TEX. R. EVID. 503(b)(1). A communication is "confidential" if not intended to be disclosed to third persons other than those to whom disclosure is made to further the rendition of professional legal services to the client or reasonably necessary to transmit the communication. Id. 503(a)(5).

Accordingly, in order to withhold attorney-client privileged information from disclosure under Rule 503, a governmental body must 1) show that the document is a communication transmitted between privileged parties or reveals a confidential communication; 2) identify the parties involved in the communication; and 3) show that the communication is confidential by explaining that it was not intended to be disclosed to third persons and that it was made in furtherance of the rendition of professional legal services to the client. See ORD 676. Upon a demonstration of all three factors, the entire communication is confidential under Rule 503 provided the client has not waived the privilege or the communication does not fall within the purview of the exceptions to the privilege enumerated in Rule 503(d). Huie v. DeShazo, 922 S.W.2d 920, 923 (Tex. 1996) (privilege extends to entire communication, including facts contained therein); In re Valero Energy Corp., 973 S.W.2d 453, 457 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1998, orig. proceeding) (privilege attaches to complete communication, including factual information).

You state the submitted fee bills contain communications between attorneys for the system and system representatives that were made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of legal services to the system. You further state these communications were intended to be, and have remained, confidential. Based on your representations and our review, we conclude the system may withhold the information we have marked under rule 503 of the Texas Rules of Evidence.¹ However, you have not demonstrated the remaining information at issue consists of privileged attorney-client communications. Further, we note an entry stating a memorandum or an e-mail was prepared or drafted does not demonstrate the document was communicated to the client. Accordingly, the system may not withhold any of the remaining information at issue under rule 503 of the Texas Rules of Evidence.

Rule 192.5 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure encompasses the attorney work-product privilege. For purposes of section 552.022 of the Government Code, information is confidential under rule 192.5 only to the extent the information implicates the core work-product aspect of the work-product privilege. See Open Records Decision No. 677 at 9–10 (2002). Rule 192.5 defines core work product as the work product of an attorney or an attorney’s representative, developed in anticipation of litigation or for trial, that contains the mental impressions, opinions, conclusions, or legal theories of the attorney or the attorney’s representative. See TEX. R. CIV. P. 192.5(a), (b)(1). Accordingly, in order to withhold attorney core work product from disclosure under rule 192.5, a governmental body must demonstrate the material was (1) created for trial or in anticipation of litigation, and (2) consists of the mental impressions, opinions, conclusions, or legal theories of an attorney or an attorney’s representative. Id.

The first prong of the work product test, which requires a governmental body to show the information at issue was created in anticipation of litigation, has two parts. A governmental body must demonstrate (1) a reasonable person would have concluded from the totality of the circumstances surrounding the investigation there was a substantial chance litigation would ensue, and (2) the party resisting discovery believed in good faith there was a substantial chance litigation would ensue and conducted the investigation for the purpose of preparing for such litigation. See Nat’l Tank v. Brotherton, 851 S.W.2d 193, 207 (Tex. 1993). A “substantial chance” of litigation does not mean a statistical probability, but rather “that litigation is more than merely an abstract possibility or unwarranted fear.” Id. at 204. The second part of the work-product test requires the governmental body to show the materials at issue contain the mental impressions, opinions, conclusions, or legal theories of an attorney or an attorney’s representative. See TEX. R. CIV. P. 192.5(b)(1). A document containing core work-product information that meets both parts of the work product test is confidential under rule 192.5, provided the information does not fall within the scope of the exceptions to the privilege enumerated in rule 192.5(c). See Pittsburgh Corning Corp. v. Caldwell, 861 S.W.2d 423, 427 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1993, orig. proceeding).

You state the information you marked in the remaining information subject to section 552.022 of the Government Code consists of attorney core work product that is protected by rule 192.5 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. You state this information was created in anticipation of litigation. You further state this information reflects attorneys’ mental impressions, conclusions, or legal theories. Having considered the submitted arguments and reviewed the information at issue, we conclude some of the information at issue, which we have marked, constitutes privileged attorney core work product that may be withheld under rule 192.5. Accordingly, the system may withhold the information we have marked under rule 192.5 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. However, we find you have not demonstrated any of the remaining information at issue contains the mental impressions, opinions, conclusions, or legal theories of an attorney or the attorney’s representative that was developed in anticipation of litigation or for trial. We therefore conclude the system may not withhold any of the remaining information at issue under rule 192.5 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure.

Section 552.143 of the Government Code provides, in part, the following:

(a) All information prepared or provided by a private investment fund and held by a governmental body that is not listed in Section 552.0225(b) is confidential and excepted from the requirements of Section 552.021.

(b) Unless the information has been publicly released, pre-investment and post-investment diligence information, including reviews and analyses, prepared for or maintained by a governmental body or a private investment fund is confidential and excepted from the requirements of Section 552.021, except to the extent it is subject to disclosure under Subsection (c).

Gov't Code § 552.143(a), (b). You contend the remaining information in Exhibit 6 is subject to section 552.143. You state the information at issue "relates to pre and post investment diligence information on a variety of real estate projects." However, we find you have failed to demonstrate the information at issue was prepared or provided by a private investment fund or constitutes pre-investment or post-investment due diligence information. Accordingly, we find the system may not withhold this information under section 552.143 of the Government Code.

Section 552.103 of the Government Code provides as follows:

(a) Information is excepted from [required public disclosure] if it is information relating to litigation of a civil or criminal nature to which the state or a political subdivision is or may be a party or to which an officer or employee of the state or a political subdivision, as a consequence of the person's office or employment, is or may be a party.

(c) Information relating to litigation involving a governmental body or an officer or employee of a governmental body is excepted from disclosure under Subsection (a) only if the litigation is pending or reasonably anticipated on the date that the requestor applies to the officer for public information for access to or duplication of the information.

Id. § 552.103(a), (c). A governmental body has the burden of providing relevant facts and documents to show the section 552.103(a) exception is applicable in a particular situation. The test for meeting this burden is a showing (1) litigation was pending or reasonably anticipated on the date the governmental body received the request for information, and (2) the information at issue is related to that litigation. Univ. of Tex. Law Sch. v. Tex. Legal Found., 958 S.W.2d 479, 481 (Tex. App.—Austin 1997, orig. proceeding); Heard v. Houston Post Co., 684 S.W.2d 210, 212 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 1984, writ ref'd n.r.e.); Open Records Decision No. 551 at 4 (1990). A governmental body must meet both prongs of this test for information to be excepted under section 552.103(a). See ORD 551.

To establish litigation is reasonably anticipated, a governmental body must provide this office "concrete evidence showing that the claim that litigation may ensue is more than mere conjecture." Open Records Decision No. 452 at 4 (1986). In the context of anticipated litigation in which the governmental body is the prospective plaintiff, the concrete evidence must at least reflect that litigation is "realistically contemplated." See Open Records Decision No. 518 at 5 (1989); see also Attorney General Opinion MW-575 (1982) (finding that investigatory file may be withheld from disclosure if governmental body attorney determines that it should be withheld pursuant to section 552.103 and that litigation is "reasonably likely to result"). Whether litigation is reasonably anticipated must be determined on a case-by-case basis. See ORD 452 at 4.

You assert the information not subject to section 552.022 of the Government Code relates to litigation reasonably anticipated by the system. You state, and provide documentation showing, prior to the system's receipt of the instant request, the system notified a named individual and the requestor of noncompliance with a specified settlement agreement and specifically identified two potential causes of action that require litigation. Based on these representations and our review, we find the system reasonably anticipated litigation at the time it received the request. You state the information at issue is directly related to the dispute between the system and the named individual and the requestor regarding the specified settlement agreement. We find the information at issue is related to the anticipated litigation. Therefore, the system may withhold the information not subject to section 552.022 under section 552.103 of the Government Code.²

Generally, however, once information has been obtained by all parties to the litigation through discovery or otherwise, no section 552.103(a) interest exists with respect to that information. See Open Records Decision Nos. 349 (1982), 320 (1982). Thus, information that has either been obtained from or provided to all parties to the anticipated litigation is not excepted from disclosure under section 552.103(a) and must be disclosed. Further, the applicability of section 552.103(a) ends once the litigation has been concluded. See Attorney General Opinion MW-575 (1982); see also Open Records Decision No. 350 (1982).

In summary, the system may withhold the information we have marked under rule 503 of the Texas Rules of Evidence. The system may withhold the information we have marked under rule 192.5 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. The system may withhold the information not subject to section 552.022 of the Government Code under section 552.103 of the Government Code. The system must release the remaining information.

²As our ruling is dispositive, we need not address your remaining argument against disclosure of this information.

This letter ruling is limited to the particular information at issue in this request and limited to the facts as presented to us; therefore, this ruling must not be relied upon as a previous determination regarding any other information or any other circumstances.

This ruling triggers important deadlines regarding the rights and responsibilities of the governmental body and of the requestor.
